Official War Bulletin. Despatch From General Grant-A Sudden Attack of the Enemy Repulsed-General

Grant Reinforced. WASHINGTON, June 5-1 P. M.

Major General Dix, New York : A despatch from Gen. Grant's headquarters dated half past eight o'clock last night, has been received.

It states that " about 7 p. m. yesterday, (Friday, 3d June,) the enemy suddenly attacked Smith's brigade, of Gibbon's division. The battle lasted with great fury for half an hour. The attack was unwaveringly repulsed Smith's losses were inconsiderable.

"At 6 p. m. Wilson, and his cavalry, fell upon the rear of a brigade of Heth's division which Lee had thrown around to his left, apparently with the intention of enveloping Burnside. After a sharp but short conflict Wilson drove them from their rifle pits in confusion. He took a few prisoners. He had previously fought with and routed Gordon's brigade of rebel cavalry.

"During these fights he lost several officers, among them Col. Preston, of the ist cavalry, kliled; Col. Benjamin, 8th New York cavalry, seriously wounded; Gen. Stannard, of the 18th corps, was seriously wounded, yesterday (Fri-

[Correspondence Associated Press.] HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, June 3, 9 p. m.—Fighting has been going on nearly all day along the line, but principally artillery, the casualties being quite large. When Barlow's division charged the enemy's works early this morning, he succeeded in getting possession of seventeen guns, besides the prisoners he took, about 250; but not being supported, and subjected to an enfillading fire, he was compelled to evacuate the works he had so gallantly taken and abandon the guns. His loss was very severe, amounting to about eight hundred. Gen. Warren's corps on the right was attaccked this afternoon by a heavy torce of the enemy, but the enemy were handsomely repulsed with severe loss. The 18th corps were engaged in skirmishing most of the day, and made a charge on a portion of the line in their front, but were unable to hold it. They fell back in good order to their former position. The 6th corps, on the left of the 18th, have been engaged more or less all day, and have suffered a good deal for the past two days. An attack on the left of the 2d corps, supposed for the purpose of feeling our left, was made an hour ago (8 p. m.,) but the enemy was soon driven off. The loss is not known. A captain of cavalry was captured a day or two ago while trying to rally his men. He was greatly excited and cursed his men at a terrible rate, saying the whole Southern cavalry were worthless, and it was no use trying to fight any Our losses for the last two days at Coal Harbor will number over five thousand in killed and wounded, while the enemy's will be nearly

CINCINNATI, June 5 .- The Commercial has accounts from Gen. Sherman's army up to the 31st nlt. There was a sharp and bloody fight on the 25th between Hooker's corps and the rebel Gen. Hood's command, near Dallas. The battle began at 5 p.m. The 2d division, General Williams, drove the enemy from his first line of works for a distance of two miles. This di-vision was soon relieved by the 1st and 3d divisions, Gens Geary and Butterfield, who advanced steadily under a terrible fire of musketry. They proceeded to within forty yards of a concealed battery, which opened upon them with a sudden and murderous discharge of grape and canister. The 1st division, in this charge, lost 900 men. The battery was finally silenced, and the enemy driven away.

But few prisoners were taken on either side. Our loss was probably greater than the enemy's, amounting to about 1,500. The substantial fruits of the day's work was again of two miles of ground, giving us a favorable position, two pieces of artillery, and a better arrangement of the line for subsequent

On the 26th a general engagement was expected, but McPherson's corps did not come up. There was a good deal of skirmishing with musketry.

Prisoners report that reinforcements had in-creased Johnston's army to 70,000. On the 27th there was a severe fight on the left. Wood's division and Scribner's brigade of Johnston's division lost 400 men. On the 28th there was heavy picket firing. On the 29th the rebels made a night attack,

Activity of Guerrillas. ST. Louis, June 5.—Despatches received by Gen. Ewing from Col. Rogers, commanding at Cape Girardeau, state that the enemy are unusually active in that portion of the State. Col. McLane reports that on the night of the 2d, 200 guerrillas camped near Patterson. He sent a force of 200 men to look after them. A force of guerrillas is reported at Cane Isl-

The presence of these bands of guerrillas is accounted for by the abandonment of Batesville and Jacksonport by the Union troops, leaving the country open to the rebels.

THE BATTLE OF COLD HARBOR. Operations of Thursday—The Enemy De-jested by Gen. Wright—Brilliant Cavalry Combats.

[Correspondence Philadelphia Inquirer.]
Cold Harbor, Seven Miles Prom RichMOND, Thursday, June 2, 2 p. m.—The events of yesterday include another battle. Again of yesterday include another battle. Again our cannons have been heard in Richmond, and again we inscribe the word success upon our banners. Between Cold Harbor and Gaines' Mill, nearly on the same ground that witnessed one of the flercest of the famous seven days' battles, we have once more en-gaged the enemy and this time beaten him.

During Tuesday night Gen. Wright's (sixth) During Tuesday night Gen. Wright's (sixth) corps was quietly withdrawn from the front on our extreme right, and marched quietly off in rear of the rest of the army towards Cold Harbor, some miles beyond our extreme left. And not only was the sixth corps moving in that direction, but simultaneously with it the eighteenth corps, under Gen. Smith, which had been brought from the James river to make headway."

White House on transports, was advancing 'o-wards the same point. The two columns con-nected punctually at the desired moment. Each day's unfolding of events increases our admiration of the far-reaching and compre-hensive strategy of Gen. Grant. Absorbed to the splendid movement of the Army of the Potomac, some of us had halt forgotten that this was only a part of the immense force acting under the guidance of the Commander in Chief.

Cold Harbor is a name given to a house and the adjacent locality at the Intersection of two roads. One road leads direct to Bottom's Bridge, which is seven miles distant; the other is called the Gaines' Mills road to Richmond. By this road, Cold Harbor is about twelve miles from Richmond, and about five miles from the Chickshominy River. General Sheridan, who, with Torbert's and Gregg's division of cavalry, has been opera-ting on our left flank, occupied this point on Tuesday night, after a sharp fight with Fitch about two brigades of Beauregard's corps of infantry. The former drove the enemy about two and a half miles before reaching Cold Harbor; the latter he found at that point, a position behind slight breastworks, from which he ultimately drove them, and held the place, in spite of two or three attempts during the night to retake it, until the arrival of Wright and Smith's corps yesterday afternoon, when the cavalry was relieved, and passed on pull further towards the left. General Sheridan had in this affair about eighty killed and wounded, and captured one hundred and twenty five prisoners.

The infantry on reaching Cold Harbor and relieving the cavalry, which they did about 34 p. m., yesterday, prepared at once to form in battle. Gen. Wright formed his corps across the Gaines Mills road, with Rickett's division (the 3d) on the right, Russell's division (the 1st) joining Ricketts, and Neill's (2d) division on the across left. Smith's corps took near on the extreme left. Smith's corps took postthrown out, and a number of batteries were brought up and put in position at favorable points near the Jaines Mills road. Heavy artillery firing and some skirmishing commenced soon after 4 p.m., and in the mean-time the preparations for battle were busily going forward to the rear. At about 6 y p. m heavy volleys of musketry began to mingle their sound with the booming of artillery. was an advance of our line-a charge upon the enemy's position.

Our line of battle, at least that of the Sixth Corps, was formed under cover of a narrow strip of woods, which served to conceal our movements from the enemy. Advancing through this we came on open ground, and fighting very soon commenced. General Russell's division, which was next on the right, was very hotly engaged. They advanced fully a mile, driving the enemy before them. General Russell, in person, leading the charge at the head of his old brigade (the Third.) Gaining the crest of a ridge the casmy's line of breastworks was seen plainly in view at the distance of about a quarter of a mile. On the left of Russell's Division was the Third Division, under Gen. Ricketts. This division was eminently successful. Passing through the strip of woods above mentioned, behind which they formed, they advance.? over an open field, across a swampy bottom, and on a wooded hill beyond descried the real entrenchments, to the shelter of which the enemy retired on their advance. A charge was immediately ordered. The men advanced with fixed bayonets, worked their way through ind-peding telled timber and abattis, and gallantly carried the works in spite of the stubborn resistance and well-directed fire of a determined foe. Five hundred prisoners were taken a once, and within less than five minutes 150 more were afterwards captured at various parts of their line.

On the right of the 6th corps, Gen. Smith with the 18th, was entirely successful, taking the enemy's line of entrenchments in front of his entire line, and holding them. The rebets made several attempts during the night to retake their captured works, but were repulsed each time, and must have suffered severely. The troops opposed to us embraced Beautegard's corps, and a part, if not all, of Long-street's and Hill's. Our entire loss in this engagement must have been about 2,000. The wounded in the 6th corps numbered about 800, Russell's division 400, Rickett's 300 and Neill's 103. The killed and missing would doubtless swell the number to more than 1,000. In the 18th corps the wounded numbered about 700, and the total loss of the corps could not have been much

This morning the 2d corps arrived at Cold Harbor, and proceeded further to the leit, with the intention of crossing the Chickahorainy at Sumner's Bridge. The movement yes-terday was doubtless the initiatory step to an-other grand flank movement, and if the success of the latter is commensurate with the success of its beginning, we may shortly expect to see great results.

FROM THE SOUTE.

Gov. Vance and Jeff Davis.

Peace Propositions-Correspondence Between Jeff Davis and Gov. Vance. The Petersburg Express under date of May 25, 1:61, publishes a correspondence relative to peace propositions which passed between Goy. Vance's letter is dated December 30th, 1863, and says: "After a careful consideration of all the sources of discontent in North O. lina, I have concluded that it will be imposble to remove it except by making some eff ct at negotiation with the enemy. The recent action of the Federal House of Representatives, though meaning very little, has greatly excit. I the public hope that the Northern mind is tooking towards peace. And, although our position is well known as demanding only to be let alone, yet it seems to me that for the sake of humanity, without having any weak or improper motives attributed to us, we might, with propriety, constantly tender negotiations. Though statesmen might regard this as useless, the people will not, and I think our cause will be strengthened thereby. I have not sugget id the method of these negotiations or their terms.

The effort to obtain peace is the principal in .... Davis replied on the 8th of January, and after acknowledging the receipt of the letter, and of similar propositions heretofore, the letter

"Apart from insuperable objections to the line of policy you propose (and to which I will presently advert) I cannot see how the more material obstacles are to be surmounted. We have made three distinct efforts to communi. cate with the authorities at Wachington, and have been invariably unsuccessful. Commissioners were sent tefore hostilities were began, and the Washington Government refused to receive them or hear what they had to say. A second time I sent a military officer with a communication addressed by myself to Prest-dent Lincoln. The letter was received by General Scott, who did not permit the officer to see Mr. Lincoln, but promised that an answer would be sent. No answer has ever teen received. The third time, a few months ago, a gentleman was sent, whose position, character and reputation were such as to insure his reception, if the enemy were not determine I to receive no proposals whatever from the Government. Vice President Stephens made a patriot of teader of his services in the hope of being abla to promote the cause of humanity, and although little belief was entertained of his success, I cheerfully yielded to his suggestion, that the experiment should be tried. The enemy refused to let him pass through their lines or to hold any conference with them. He was stopped before he ever reached Fortress Monroe, on his way to Washington. To attempt again (in the face of these repeated rejections of all conference with us) to send commissioners or agents to propose peace, is to invite insult or contumely, and to subject surselves to indignity without the slightest chance of being listened to. No true citizen, no man who has our cause at heart, can desire this, and the good people of North Carolina would be the last to ap-prove of such an attempt, if aware of all the facts. If, then, these proposals cannot be made through envoys because the enemy would not receive them, how is it possible to communicate our desire for peace otherwise than by the public announcement contained in almost every message I ever sent to Congress 1 cannot recall at this time one instance to which I have failed to announce that our only desire was peace, and the only terms which formed a sine qua non were precisely those that you suggested, namely: "a demand only to be let alone." But suppose it were practicable to obtain a conference through commissioners with the Government of President Lincoln, is it at this moment that we are to consider it desirable or even at all admissable? Have we not just been apprised by that despot that we can only expect his gracious pardon by emancipating all our slaves, swearing allegiance and obedience to him and his proclamation, and becoming, in point of fact, the slaves of our own negroes? Can there be in North Carolina one citizen so fallen beneath the dignity of his ancestors as to accept, or to enter into conference on the basis of these terms? That there are a few traitors in the State who would be willing to betray their fellow-citizens to such a degraded condition, in hope of being tewarded for treachery by an escape from the common doom, may be true. But I do not believe that the vilest wretch would accept such terms for himselt

I fear much from the tenor of the news? receive from North Carolina that an attempt will be made by some bad men to inaugurate sirable or even at all admissable? Have we ceive from North Carolina that an attempt will be made by some bad mea to inaugurate movements which must be considered as equivalent to aid and comfort the enemy, and which all patriots should combine to put down at any cost. You may count on my aid in every effort to spare your State the scenes of civil warfare which will devastate its homes if the designs of these traitors be suffered to make headway?
